FIRST DECISIONS PROGRAM

For parents with children from
8 to 11 years old

Introduction:

The First Decisions course is designed for parents seeking to help their children acquire a sense of morals and ethics during the golden age of “childhood maturity”. This stage of development is ripe for children learning to make personal decisions in various daily situations and to do so based upon fundamental values.

- Foster the concept of freedom and exemplify making decisions based on values.
- Teach children to make good decisions based on values.
- Develop the child’s sense of will and desire to live based on values.

The First Decisions course aims to equip parents with the tools to teach their children the importance of living according to a scale of values and to acquire these values for themselves and their children. This course will guide both husband and wife, step-by-step, topic-by-topic, to use dialogue as an educational tool to guide their children’s first decisions.
